Opening Day of the Catholic Centennial.

The Streets of Baltimore Thronged with Visitors.

Cardinals, Many Prelates Hundreds of Priests Take Part -Eloquent Oration by Archbishop Ryan.

Cathedral.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The most important group of events in the history of the Catholic Church in America occurred here this morning. It was the commencement of the triple celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the appointment of the first American Catholic bishop, the inauguration of the first congress of Catholic laymen held in the United States and the dedication of the new National University for Catholics. Tens of thousands of strangers were in Baitimore to witness the spectacle, four times as many people, not counting local Catholics, as could possibly be accommedated in the Cathodral, where the initial scenes were to be witnessed. in America occurred here this morning. It scenes were to be witnessed.

The ball in which the priests assembled

The ball in which the priests assembled was elaborately decorated. Above the doors were the papal colors, yeliow and white, and over these, stretching upward to the caves, were neat streamers of red, white and blue. When all was ready, 600 clergy, walking two and two, emerged, clad in white surplices and black cossocks and berettas.

At the doorway of the Cardinal's house and leading up the broad steps, with sabers and polished helmets glistening in the bright morning sunlight, were double lines of guards. Here again the papal colors and Stars and Stripes were intermingted. In all directions the streets seem filled with people, and the open windows of the surrounding dwellings had each its quota. Presently, while the while-surpliced priests were opening ranks, a mass of purple-enveloped figures were seen in the Cardinal's doorway. It was a gathering of nearly all the Catholic bishops and archishishops in the United States, with representatives from Mexico, Canada, England and Rome.

AN IMPOSING SCENE.

The prelates now came forth from the big portice in pairs, and as each two stepped into the street their robes were caught by diminuitve sitar boys in waiting. Here and there among the silken-purple vestments of the bishops could be seen the coarse brown or white garb of a bearded abbot. Through the long lines of priests, the prelates threated their way all around the square is the main surrock to the Cathedral. The coar of the second in the square is the main surrock to the Cathedral. The cariet The two gon in scariet were Cardinals of the Roman Church in America, Gibbons of Baistinora, and Tashereau of Quebec. Eight accives upheld their long vestments and surrounding them were their monaignors and hapal delegates O'Connell and Satolil of Rohe.

In the Cathedral ten minutes later the scene was simply magnificent. The pews throughout the church were crowded to the utmost with the laby. In striking contrast with the dark-church were crowded to the utmost with the laby. In striking contrast with the dark-church agregation thus formed were the disless, center, front and sides, packed with snowy-surpliced priests. Against both laity and priests shone the serried purple ranks of prelates. Inside the sanctuary, on either side, was a dais for the cardinals. At the high altar stood the mitred celebrant of the mass. Arcabishop Williams of Boston, and over all was the great white and gold done of the Cathedral. At the consecration of the host the cardinals accepted the monaignors.

Anchibishop Byan of Polladelphia. The patriotic spirit of the Archbishop's address and his tribute to the recent devo eis of the co-ored people and Indians seemed to awaken general enthusiasm, but the most telling effect was aroused when he vindicated the rights of Catholic editors, if need be, to freely comment on the falling of the clergymen.

In the course of his address Archbishop Ryan said: "Of all the false charges alleged against the Catholic Church, the most sense ess and unfounded is that she fears science and is the enemy of education. Her opponents, in almost the same breath, charge her with being the foe at once and the monopolizer of education, and yet the last man in the world to fear intellectual pr. gress, whether p-pular or individual, is the Catholic. He well knows that truth is one; that God cannot contradict in the revelations of science, hience man's fear essness of such science will be in proportion to the certainty of his conviction of the truths of revelation."

The Archbishep continued, addressing the laity: "And on this great his-oric occasion you must not be mere observers, but we trust your representatives will speak out freely and fearlessly in the lay congress which forms so interesting a feature of this centennial celebration. You know how folse is the charge of the enemies of the church that you are priest-ridden. The clergy do not fear the light of day, and if mistakes are made by Catholic editors regarding their acts, it is not all an evil, for it clearly shows the rightful independence of the Catholic poluronist."

The Archbishop gave the general statistics of the church during the century as follows: "When Bishop Carroli was consecuted in 1790, the entre population of the United States was little more than 4,000,000. The Catholic population was estimated at secrated in 1790, the entire population of the United States was little more than 4,000,000 secrated in 1790, the entire population of the United States was little more than 4,000,000. The Catholic population was estimated at 40,000. There is now a Catholic population of 9,000,000,800 priests, 10 500 churches and chapels, 27 seminaries and 650 colleges and academies and over 3000 parish schools. The remarkable statistics quoted become marvelous when we consider the antagonism of the great majority of the people to the Catholic Church. As in pagan times, in the history of this country, the Catholic Church's perfect organization was feared as possibly dangerous to the state, and a great and numerous party, afraid to act in open day, entered into a secret society against a haudin of their fellow-citizens. Few people realize how much indirect benefit this cowardly opposition was to the church during the brief, inglorious existence of the party, prophetically named at its birth Know Nothing. The thoughtful men of the Nation who opposed this party were driven into the ranks of the church's d-fenders. Important conversions and the clearing away of much innormace and prejudice were the results. The Civil War, which so retarded the Nation and all religious institutions, including our own, and spit up all non-Catholic denominations into northern and southern organizations, showed forth the united power of the Catholic Church, and also exhibited her marvelous and well-regulated charity. Hence, since the war there is more change in the popular sentiment in relation to the Catholic Church. In addition to this, it must be remembered that Catholics and Protestants now associate more frequently and intimately, and understand each other better. But we must also bear in mind that there are statistics of losses known only to the mind of God, and that many have fallen away. I believe that in the last century we could have done more for the colored people south and the Indian tribes. I am not unmindful of the zeal and limited resources for its exercises of the southern bishoes, nor of the great self-sacrifice of the Indian missionaries. But as I believe that negro slavery and the unjust treatment of Indians are two great blots upon American civilization, so I feel that in the church also the most reasonable cause for regret in the past century is the fact that more could have been done for the same dependent classes. Let us now, in the name of God, resolve to make rep-ration for those shortcomings of the past. A magnificent future is before the church in this country, if we are only true to her, to the country and to ourselves. The singing of a Te Deum by the choir with the orchestra brought the memorable service to a close.

service to a close CONTINUING THE CELEBRATION.

This afternoon there was a bunquet, at which all the visiting prelates were present. Addresses were made by Arhebishop Satolli, Addresses were mane by Archishop Satoni, Cardinal Gibbons, Cardinal Taschereau and Bishop Montes of Mexico. Letters were read from Cardinal Manning-of England and Archbishop Wish of Ireland, Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul elicited great enthusiasm in responding to "Our Country" great enthusiasm in responding to "Our Country."

Tonight the Cathedral was respiendent from basement to dome with electric lights, and the crush of pe ple surpassed even the experience of the morning. Papal vespers were sung by Archbishop Heiss of Milwaukee. The orator of the evening was Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia. The conferring of the papal benediction closed the celebration, so far as the centenary of the hierarchy is concerned.

Tomorrow the congress of Catholic laymen begins in Concordia Hall.

THE RED FLAG. MRS. PARSONS TRIES TO WAVE

IT IN CHICAGO.

"Because my orders are to pull it down," said the patrelman, and without further pericy he tore down the flag and took it to the station.

The day at Waldheim Cemetery was

The day at Waldhelm Cemetery was dreary and cold. From a crowd of 5000 last year the attendance today had dwindled to less than 2000, and of this number not a few were merely curious sightseers. The floral decorations were profuse and beautiful, but the only inscription which had any tings of the old-time style was one reading. "Murdered, but Still Alive." During the exercess Mirs. Spless, Mrs. Schwab and Mrs. Fischer stood at the head of the graves, while Mrs. Parsons, sitting on the damp ground by her husband's grave, with her little boy by her side, abundoned herself to tears.

After musical selections, C. J. Clemens of Topeka, Kan., stepped forward and announced himself an American Anarchist. Although he understood that his life was in danger in Chicago he had determined to have his say. Clemens then abused the laws and authorities in a milder vein than last year. His address was principally devoted to the "crimes of the aristocracy." "Only through blood," said he, "can white slavery be abolished. Don't imagine we are at peace. We are at war with the existing conditions. Of course we can't have a battle every day, but the energy of forces will gather and the inevitable conflict in which we hope to have a successful issue will come."

Two other brief speeches were made. No disturbances occurred throughout the day.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 10.—The Anarchists of this city today celebrated the anniversary of the Chicago executions. The speeches made were bitterly denunciatory in tone, but did not advise the immediate use of violent means to obtain the Anarchists' object.

violent means to obtain the Anarchists' object.

Sr. I.OUIS, Nov. 10.—The St. Louis Anarchists celebrated here tonight in commemoration of the execution of Anarchists, but the affair was decidedly tame and not what the incendiary circulars distributed broadcast indicated it would be. The hall where the meeting was held was profusely decorated with crape and red bunting and pictures and busts of the dead Anarchists. DENVER (Col.), Nov. 10.—The red flag foilowers held a meeting tonight on the an inversary of the execution of the Chicago Anarchists. No demonstrations or fiery speeches were indusced in, and about the only thing done was the adoption of resolutions demanding the immediate release of the three Anarchists in Joilet prison.

COL GOODLOE DEAD.

Fatal Termination of the Kentucky Duel LEXINGTON (Ky.), Nov. 10.—[By the Associated Press. J Col. Goodice died at 12:15 p.m. today.

Goodloe died peacefully and painlessly, surrounded by his family and a few close friends. The city is in mourning over his death, and the flag on the Government building has been placed at half mast. The tuneral will be held here on Tuesday after-noon next at 2 o'cleck. The family has re-ceived hundreds of telegrams of sympathy, including those trom William W. Dudley, J. S. Ciarkson and M. S. Quay.

Stole the County's Fund.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 10.—A Manhattan (Kan.) special says: A letter was received today from James M. Fortner, County Treasurer of Kiley county, stating that he was at Windsor, Ont., having gone there to escape arrest for embezzling the county funds. Fortner's attorney has the keys to his safe, but retuses to open the safe until he can be authoritatively ordered to do so by the County Commissioners, who meet tomorrow for that purpose. It is believed Fortner made away with all the county funds.

> public by the Misses Gamble. The general sentiment of those who visited the art rooms at the Chrysan-themum Fair was that Los Angeles thad a number of artists of whom she is an amusing one. Pauline L'Allemand, the soprano of the Boston Ideals, will, if negotiations now pending are consummated, become a member of the Tivoli Opera Commight well be proud. It will not be many years before Los Angeles will be an art center for this coast. full cup of inspiration.

The Russian artist, T. Kamensky, now in this country, is a tall, stalwart man, with a large head, striking features, a flowing beard and a genual expression. It is as a sculptor that he has won his reputation, and he has been engaged to construct certain monumental works for the adornment of the capitol at Topeka, Kan. Among these works there is to be a statue of John Brown.

The price paid for Millett's celebrated picture, "The Angelus," $110, 900, was the highest ever paid for a modern picture at auction, and, with one exception, the highest price ever paid for any picture at auction; that exception was a picture of the "Assumption of the Virgin" by Murillo, for which the French Government paid $123,000.

"The Angelus" was painted about thirty years ago. Millet received $500 for it, the purchaser being the then Belgian Minister at Paris. Some time atterward the picture sold for $10,000 and the price served solarys to the and the price seemed so large to the modest painter that he publicly dis-claimed having had anything to do with the sale. Now it sells for $110,-

The sad reflection in this connection is that Millet himself should have had so little return for his great work. He lived and died in poverty and his widow now lives in Paris in destitute circumstances. The tens of thousands of dollars that have been realized by the sales of his pictures have gone to enrich other persons. His genius did the work, but others have seaved the rework, but others have reaped the reward.

"The Angelus" as painted by Millet was on a canvas that measured 21½ by 25½ inches. Its late owner, M. Secretan, bought it for $32,000 in 1881. During the eight years he held it, its value increased $78,600.

It is a picture that breathes a benediction upon all who see it. A painting like that truly elevates art to the region of inspiration. The American offer for the picture was but $200 less than the amount for which it sold. But the French Government was determined to keep it for the Louvre and would probably have secured it at any price. 2. Any mail subscriper to the Times, or any other person residing outside the city, who will pay $9 in advance for one year's subscription to the daily, can also have the Weekly Mirror mailed free for the same time

The company errived last light from San Francisco, where they have played a most successful engagement. Of Nellie McHenry, the San Francisco Music and Drama says:

"Nellie McHenry, the charming comedienne, under the direction of Webster and Maeder, has this week presented to excellent houses Bronson Howard's clever and amusing farce-comedy, For Swet Charity's Sake, an embodiment of the trials, tribulations and mishaps encountered by the professional stage manager of a company of society amateurs in trying to produce an Indian drama. The piece is cleverly arranged to introduce any number of specialties required without interfering with the action. Nellie McHenry is as brilliant and lively as ever, and as "Kittie Plumpet" has one of the best roles she has ever assumed, the work! 19 weever, being something heroic. Besides the arduous singing, dancing the continual dramatic action. Miss McHenry makes a number of charming changes of costume sufficient to occupy a society lady's time an entire evening. The brilliant comedienne is ably supported by W. H. Lytell, who, as Booth McC. Forrest, the tragedian and stage-manager, has several exceedingly amusing situations which he invests with humor, keeping the audience in a constant state of hilarity. John Webster is very funny as the Rev. Ernest Duckworth, his make-up in the last act being a revelation in grease-paint. Charles Shackford, as Capt. Harry Opdyke, sings well and gives a very pleasant impersonation of a young officer. Louis Finninger plays Rufus Morton, a Wallstreet banker, with a strong French dialect, and as one of the church-choir ballet makes a hit. Blanche Mortimer is very acceptable as a young and very affected widow, and Felix Haney is quite amusing as Mrs. R. Rufus Morton, a lady of Milesian extraction. There is plenty of music in the comedy, nearly everybody contributing a song or two, and the fun at times "waxes fast and furious."

borion, it would be strange, indeed, if there was not music in the air, accompanied, it is to be hoped also, by a prudent storing up of large round dollars, to be exchanged later at the Pavillon for so much solid enjeyment. The little state-colored "book o' the play," issued to the public yesterday, with pictures and programmes, is an excellent appetizer. The prices are reasonable enough, and the success of the National Opera Company should be repeated in this the first real jubilee.

FROM PAGES BUTTONS TO ACTOR'S BUSKIN.

First Appearance on the Stage of Active Life-What Congress Was 40 Years Ago-Anecdotes of Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Douglas, Jeff Davis and Others.

Only one who has been there can appreciate the fun and import there is in the life of a page in the Capitol at Washington. Frequently in my later years I have been asked to recall my experiences, and I do so to find much of education and frolic in the days I spent there when a lad. I was a page in the Thirtieth and Thirty-first Conin the Thirtieth and Thirty-first Congresses, and clearly remember events which then transpired, while I readily forget many important occurrences of my maturer life. As a rule, children are great critics and careful observists. The boys then watched, as they do now, I have no doubt, the movements of the statesmen they liked or disliked, easily caught on to their moods and methods, and made good use of them for their own benefit. They had little reverence for anybody or anything, and were merciless in their criticisms of the appearance and habits of the Congressmen.

AN ACCIDENTAL APPOINTMENT. AN ACCIDENTAL APPOINTMENT.

It was not an easy thing in those days for a boy to get an appointment as page. I had a great struggle before I was successful, and, after all, I was appointed by an accident. I was born in Annapolis, and raised in Baltimore. My parents had no political "pull" whatever, and their means were not abundant enough to make them influential socially. The necessity of doing something tradd to the sity of doing something to add to the family store therefore came upon me very early in life. I thought of a dozen things; my mother of a dozen more. Finally, I hit upon a place in the Capitol as page. Reverdy Johnson, who was then a prominent man, was a distant relative of ours, and he gave me a letter to some friends in gave me a letter to some friends Washington. On my arrival there found more than a hundred boys, with more influence than I had, cla with more influence than I had, clam-oring for the dozen places to be filled. Yet I held on to what little grip my letters gave me, and one day secured Jeff Davis as one of my sponsors. His letter to the doorkeeper of the House was not over earnest, but it was a great kindness to a boy without influence, either social or political. I haunted the Capitol day after day, and I myst have been a nightwars to the I must have been a nightmare to the man having the appointing power. I was so persistent that he finally promised me that I should go on as substitute when any of the boys were sick.

I have often heard it said that great events turn up-on small hing-es. It was so es. It was so in my case. One of the boys was report-ed sick one morning and I heard of it earheard of it early. I immediately collared
the doorkeeper and reminded him of his promise. I was just in the nick

as myself. I was ahead, however, and was sent on the floor of the House to take the place of the sick boy. It seems to me that I must have had a the National Opera Company should be repeated in this the first real jubilee.

GLMORE'S BAND.

Los Angeles will be favored with the grandest musical festival in the world on November 18th and 19th, being the musical festival of the famous Gillander Band. The vocal selections will be presented by Sig. Campannini, the greatest tenor the world has ever known; Mile. I immediately made for him, and in nassing this ponderous man with the passing this ponderous man with the big feet I stumbled over him. I suppose I must have hurt his bunions terribly, for he gave me an awful nudge in the ribs with his elbow which nearly knocked me down and said:

"You careless little rascal! Can't you see where you are going?"
Mr. Toombs laughed heartly, but I was in anything but good humor over the incident. I completed my errand for the member who had called and then took my seat below the Speaker's desk. A few minutes later the large man with the big feet, whom as I afterward learned was Gen. Winfield Scott, left the House and Mr. Toombs called me. He was in excellent humor and said:
"Son, there's another man over there

The doorkeeper explained that he was so crowded with applications that he couldn't find a place for me, but he promised Mr. Toombs that I should have the first vacancy.

One morning I found out that one of the lads had been taken off by his parents. I immediately pounced upon Mr. Horner to keep his promise, but he put me off, saying that he was so crowded with other obligations that he could not take care of me. I immediately reported the facts to Mr. Toombs. "The devil you say!" said the statesman from Georgia. "I'll see whether he puts you on or not."

He took me by the hand and walked directly over to where the doorkeeper was sitting and said:

ANDREW JOINSON AS A PENMAN.

Getting the autographs of members was quite a source of income. For this service we received $10, but this money was not easily carned. It was very difficult to get some of the members to sign, while others were delighted to write their names. Andrew Johnson was one whe was very fogd of giving his autograph, and it was with some difficulty that he could write it. He was just then coming into significant public life, and his education had not been gleaned in a schoolhouse. In signing his name he would put his tongue to one side of his nouth and sway his body with every movement of his pen, lies an Irishman who is a little in doubt about his ability to even make his mark. It was, therefore, great fun for the boys to get Mr. Johnson to sign his name, and they were constantly playing pranks on him. The members were as bad as the boys, and they would put the pages up to go to him for his signature for the purpose of watching him write it.

Being a page for three years or more I naturally became acquainted with many of the Senators as well as the members. We were constantly running over there with measages. Some of them were very gruff, while others always had a pleasant word for us. I remember that Mr. Douglas was exceedingly popular, and it was always a scramble to see who should go to him with us, say pleasant things and give us good advice. Mr. Clay was also a man of whom we liked very much, as was Mr. Calhoun. But we were all shy of Mr. Webster. He had little to say to us, and toward the end of the first session of the Thirtieth Congress made an attack on the boys.

It was the habit in those days to vote each of the pages at the end of the session. $200 additional compensation. There was no possible excuse for it, and it would never have passed had it not always been tacked on to some appropriation bill that was rushed through during the last hours of the session. After the bill passed the House breathed easier. But its fate in the Senate was quite uncertain. The boys over there were equally interested with us, and they went to work on their side. We helped them all we could whenever opportunity offered, but had it not been for Mr. Webster we would probably never have secured the passage of the bill. When the section came up in which we When the section came up in which we were interested he got up and said he was opposed to this appropriation, as it was wrong in principle and effect, and he could not vote for it. Had he stopped there we would never have won the fight, but some of the pages whose duty it was to clean up the desks had lost some of his papers, and he was mad. So he went on to say that the boys were dishonest, and even if the appropriation was right they were looking for Mr. Douglas, while some Senator was put up to talk against time. None of the messengers were able to find him. I came in from an errand in the midst of the excitement and asked what was the commotion. Every one said:

"We want to find Mr. Douglas."

Just then Mr. Jeremiab Clemens of Alabama came up and said:

"It give $25 to any one who will find Mr. Douglas."

I at once inquired of the boys where they had been, and suggested hair a dozan places where he might be found, for the pages knew very well most of the haunts of the Congressmen. "We have been to all of them," said the boys in concert. I hit upon a place after a moment's study where I thought he might be. The boys seemed to have covered all the other terpitory. I rushed out of the door, grabbed my hat and started for the House. The pages in those days had horses to ride in going on errands. They were rather were better than none. Mr. Horner, the doorkeeper, had to give us an order for one. He kept them ready written and they read, no matter what the boy's name, "Give Jake a horse." I got one, quickly ran and mounted one of the nags, and at the top of his speed dashed up the avenue. I drew up to the place, about half a mile distant, a dismounted, rang the door-bell and asked if Mr. Douglas was in. "He is," as id the servant. "Tell him Mr. Clay's Compromise Bill is about to pass, and asked if Mr. Douglas was in. "He is," can the servant. ing: "Great heavens! is that so?"

I believe that he had some one at home very sick, for be got up immediately and followed me out of the ball into the rotunda. The new halls of Congress had not then been built. As luck would have it, there was but one lady there. I pointed toward her, and as Mr. Johnson started in that direction, I darted back into the hall. I was passed. A few minutes later Mr. Johnson came back and began inquiring of everybedy who that little rascal was who brought him that last message.

She is a lady was and exacting the dark and sous who, it is to be regretted, have grown up very exact or the father. So I felt a good deal of charity for the lady's indulgence in such sentiments in reference to the masculine sex. But for myself I do not indorse such opinion. Men and women are endowed with natures very similar. There are great-hearted, royal-souled men to be met with every day, with hearts as tender as a woman's—souled men to be met with every day, with hearts as tender as a woman's—with hearts as tender as a woman's—souled men to be met with every day, with hearts as tender as a woman's—with hearts as tender as a woman's—with hearts as tender as a woman's—souled men to be met with every day, with hearts as tender as a woman's—souled men to be met with every day, with hearts as tender as a woman's—souled men to be met with every day, with hearts as tender as a woman's—souled men to be met with every day, with hearts as tender as a woman's—souled men to be met with every day, archipolego (comprising 3000 islets with hearts and pleasure loving. FRESH LITERATURE.

MITO YASHIKI.—A tale of Old Japan, being a feudar romance descriptive of the decline of the Phogunaire and of the downfall of the power of the Tokugawa fam ly. By Akraua Collins Maclar. A.M., Lib. B. author of "A Budget of Letters From Japan," San Francisco.

Of the former work of this author, "A Budget of Letters from Japan," the Japan Weekly Mail, published at Yokohama, says: "It is not unworthy a place beside the best, and most instructive of the lighter descriptive books relating to the Empire." and this later volume compares favorably with the one thus generously indorsed. To read its pages is like opening one's eyes in that far land of the Orient, and becoming an actual observer of the habits, customs and life of that highly interesting people, of whom so little comparatively is known by the outside world.

Of his work the author says: "I have endeavored to picture in this tale of old Japan the workings of that wonderful system of espionage that characterized the Tokugawa dynasty of Shoguns—a system that covered the Empire like a net, and which was interwoven with innumerable incidents of the most thrilling interest. I have also depicted in mild colors the official corruption, peculiar in a marked degree to the regime of the later Shoguns. And, finally, I have endeavored to picture the amazement and bewilderment of keen pagan intellects, strongly imbued with atheistical ideas, when brought in contact with the mighty realities of the have endeavored to picture the amazement and bewilderment of keen pagan intellects, strongly imbued with atheistical ideas, when brought in contact with the mighty realities of the Christian civilization of the nineteenth century."

Here is a picture of the life of a young Japanese girl: "Our young lady's household duties are not of a very onerous nature. At daylight, she is up with her mother helping to slide back the ahme doors. Then she assists in the preparation of breakisst: She cuts up the daikon into dainty slices; she washes out the rice and pulsa it into the iron pot over the fire; she broils a carp over the glowing coals in the brazier, and, finally, when everything has been fully prepared, she helps to serve the meat. After breakfast, she sweeps out all the rooms and washes off the veranda before settling herself down on the mats for a season of sewing and gossiping with her mother, at which occupation she will probably be interrupted by the young lady from the next house, who comes in to compare notes on their recent visit to the festival at the Ghon Temple in the city, when thousands of people crowded in from the sounty as and oranges. This precious season of amiable discourse will be prolonged until the shortening shadows of the trees and shrubbery announce the approach of high noon, when the season will be adjourned in order to make preparation for dinner. "In the afternoon she employs her time as seems most agreeable to herself. Perhaps she will call on her young neighbors; possibly she may stroll up the ravine in search of wild flowers; or she may belot the old agree.

self. Perhaps she will call on her young neighbors; possibly she may stroll up the rawne in search of wild flowers; or she may help the old servant trim the bushes and the hedges. And when the sun begins to approach the summit of the Atago-Yama, heraiding the speedy return of her father and brothers from the city, she hastens to aid her mother in preparing the evening meal. And with the closing day the ahme doors are slid together, and early slumbers settle upon the household."

Mr. Clay arose and in a very impassioned speech of a few minutes espoused our cause and severely rebuked Mr. Webster for descending from his high position as a statesman to attack the integrity of children. This incident passed our bill, and the boys were, as you may imagine, fast friends of Mr. Clay.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Los Angeles, Nov. 9.—[To the Editor of THE Times.] Touching the suggestion for suitable employment for the ladies, let me say: There are many the ladies, let me say: There are many overworked housekeepers who do not fell they can bear the expense of a "girl" at present wages for such labor, yet who would offer good homes in return for assistance in light work and small pay, that would be mutually beneficial to employer and employed; not with drudgery, lonely evenings and a garret for sleeping-room, but a home with pleasant surroundings. Will some who have such homes answer through who have such homes answer through The Times? For by their seeking such places they would be met with the question. "Can you do all kinds of labor?" while light labor for a good home would be better reached by this understanding. H. T. W.

The Naturalization of Englishmen. Los ANGELES, Nov. 7 .- To the Editor of THE TIMES.] It is with general to note the great change that general to note the great change that is gradually coming over the "English factions" in the United States. For a long time Britishers have been the most backward of all allens, Chinamen excepted, in becoming naturalized; but now they are waking up to what seems to me their positive duty, namely, to become citizens. May the good work still go on. Yours truly, G. READER.

Opium smugging has also grown to an unparalleled extent. It is brought over in the raw state to Victoria, there refined, and then smuggled by the hundredweight across the border. British Columbia ought to belong to the United States politically as s geographically. It is said that a majority of the people up there are

A DISPATCH from San Bernardino mounces that the Insane Asylum Commissioners have selected the Mc-Abee tract, three and a half miles north of town, consisting of 480 acres, with 80 inches of water and the Governor's inevitable five inches of hot water, without which, it appears, that no site would be complete. The price is $110,000, and it is added that the Governor will approve the site, provided the title is correct. This is as far as we are aware, a new site. We know nothing about it, but the mention of the Governor's five inches of hot water shows that it must be near the Governor's land, for the selection of which the Governor has been contending in a "strictly business" manner, ever since he appointed the comon. The commission has evidently kissed and made up. This unprecedented instance of jockeying and There are those who affirm that the we believe the people of Southern California would be justified in insisting kill its usefulness at the last, but we upon an official investigation of the creased. He says:

The public may rest absolutely assured that safety will not be secured by burying these wires. The condensation of moisture, the ingress of water, the dissolving influence of coal gas and air-oxidation upon the various insulating compounds will result only in the transfer of deaths to man-holes, houses, stores and offices, through the agency of the telephone, the low-pressure systems and the apparatus of the high-tension current itself. I have no intention, and I am sure none will accuse me of being an alarmist. When the possibilities of the future are viewed in the light of recent developments, it must be apparent to every one that the time has come when those in authority should adopt proper and adequate measures for the protection of life and property, and my familiarity with the subject enables me to see very clearly the only true remedy which can be applied—namely, the regulation of electrical pressures. Once these pressures are reduced to a point which is harmless, the public may retire in security and leave electricians to discuss the merits or demerits of various methods of insulating the defects of which will only consumations interested in the commerce of

WHAT WILL THE COUNCIL DO?

The report of the Sewer Commission will be presented to the Council today. The report was referred to in these columns vesterday, but the importance tion, particularly so in view of the fact that interested persons are doing their best to belittle the work of the com-

The report, after referring to the unusual healthfulness of Los Angeles. very correctly expresses the most vital consideration in extending the present system as being the retention and, if possible, improvement of the healthfulness of the city, or, in other words, the reduction of the death rate. This, the committee believes, can be accor plished only through a sewer system which embodies correct sanitary prin ciples and practice. To this end, the belief is expressed that sewers should not be enlarged beyond their requisite capacity as sewers, in order to serve the additional purpose of storm drains; also that all sewers should be kept small, to the end that they may be flushed and kept clean, it being, the committee believes, better and cheaper to construct additional sewers on parallel streets, as the population creases, rather than to endanger the ealth of the public by largely antick pating in the size of the sewers the growth of the city.

After health comes the question of cost. On this subject the report contains the following very sensible and pertinent remarks:

pertinent remarks:

We can see no good in debt itself, and recommend a debt only to avoid greater evils; hence would create the least amount of debt consistent with the present urgent demands for expenditures. It is imperative that we bear in mind other improvements needed by the city, the beautifying of our parks, acquisition of water works, etc., etc., and that we do not too nearly approach the limit of taxation. Therefore, in the sum named as the minimum debt to be incurred, it is not contemplated to construct all the main sewers and storm drains that shall become necessary for the city for a term of years in the future. We are of the opinion that a larger debt than the one named should not be incurred, believing that the expenditure of this sum will prove amply sufficient for the purpose as given.

The value of water in this land of ir-

The value of water in this land of irrigation is emphasized. Its great value to the agriculturist "is enhanced rather than diminished, when the water be comes sewage; 99.5 per cent. of the total is still water, which we should not waste." The water should be saved and used to irrigate our thirsty land, first having been clarified whereby the solids are separated from the liquids. Raw sewage is objectionble and undesirable. The city can sell the liquids, so as to receive an income

An interior system of sewers is next outlined, and the committee takes up the question of utilization, recommending that the sewage be treated by "precipitation, flitration, electricity or otherwise," and that works be owned and controlled by the city and for its benefit; that in selling the water it should be distributed among as many small land-owners as possible; that any small land-owners as possibl An interior system of sewers is next natural water courses; that if the Council should deem it best to dispose of the sewage for purification, the city should have the right to supervise and purchase the works; and that the city hould not own or operate any sewer farm, but dispose of products to landwners. The questions of city outfalls or purification works, location of purification works, disposition of sewage sludge, and purchase of the South Side Irrigation Company's property, are then treated in detail, after which the subect of right of way to the ocean is taken up, and it is recommended, in deference to the opinion of some citizens—which the commission does not entirely share—that a right of way 50 feet wide be acquired to the ocean, either by purchase or condemnation, to be used in the last instance, should the same ever become a necessity.

As to cost, the following estimates are offered, which are larger than those made by the engineering experts who are members of the committee: .... 75,000 Storm drains ...

Finally, the recommendation is made that, in submitting the question to the vote of the people, it be submitted so that the voters may vote upon each question separately, provided the method as recommended can be legally

What will the Councilmen do with this complete and carefully prepared report? We believe that they will giv it the careful consideration which it merits, and that they will place the substance of it-perhaps with some slight modifications—in shape to be acted upon by the voters. We are led to this belief by recent pleasing signs of a desire on part of the members of the Council to be fair-minded. Council is only apparently fair in letting the commission act, in order to do not share this opinion. We believe that the recommendations of the commission will be embodied in an ordinance, which will be submitted to the voters, and that the voters will approve it by a very large majority. ELECTROLYSIS.

Commenting upon the recently discovered process of purifying sewage known as electrolysis, to which we have previously referred, the Chicago Her-

There is a possibility that all the alarm as to the noxious effects of sewage along the route of the proposed drainage canal may be groundless, and that science may discover methods of deodorizing it before it commences its flow across the country. A paper was lately read before the British Association by Mr. Webster on the purification of sewage by a process known as electrolysis. So far as the contents of the address are known here, they affirm that the method will separate the organic matter from water. If this discovery shall prove to be reality the drainage problem will be enormously simplified. The sewage will become pure water, odoriess, and therefore inoffensive to the citles through which the canal will pass. It may even be that the sewage of Chicago, treated by this agent at its points of exit, may become so purified that it will be no injury to the water supply, and may with impunity be allowed to run into the lake.

There are several probabilities connected with this new discovery. Sewage may be ald savs:

purified at its various sources—at the factories, in the kitchens, the stockyards, everywhere. It may be that the city will so able to solve the sewage problem without the expenditure of millions of dollars.
Nothing is apparently impossible to science.

THE ATCHISON ROAD.

A recent dispatch from Boston an-A recent disposal and the California Southern's finances for the six months ending June 30th show a deficit of $50,000. There have been many varying rumors flying around as to the prospects of the Atchison Company under the proposed reorganization. The future of this great railroad corporation is a matter of no slight consequence to Southern California, where its beneficiation, "The Missouri I." turn for the Winter—A Few Reasons Why Base-ball Has Gone to the Wall.

Great is California, and mighty is Sunol, the queen of California trotters. Her performance last Saturday at the Bay District track at San Francisco, when she clipped the great Axtell's wings, fully sustained the high opinion horsemen all over the country had of her. Axtell's performance of 2:12 made last October at Terre Haute, in Ind., has been the mark Sonator Stanford has been aiming at ever since it was made, and when Sunol cut it down to 10\(\frac{1}{2}\), there can be found no prouder man in the State than the sware of the Palo Alto stables. Sunol is a beautifully two and a hait inches higher than the fore. This given her a greyhound-like form, and a most perfect and beautiful one she has. Sunol is a daughter of the great Electioneer, by Waxana; Electioneer is a Rysdyx Hambletonian, dam Green Mountain Maid, and is still living, being now 21 years old and the property of Senator Stanford. Waxana, the dam of Sunol, was the daughter of Gen. Benton, many of whose produce reached the 30s, notably Salile Benton, who scored 2:174 in her typar-old form. It is hard to tell where Sunol will stop. Two ten and a half as a 3-year-old is a wonderful performance, but when we remember that Goldsmith Maid did not make her record (2:14) until she was 16 years old it is hard to tell what Sunol will do as a 5-year-old Mand S. "Lucky" Baldwin is back at Santa Anita with his stables. His horses all made the trip in good shape, except Callente, who died at Fort Worth, Tex. Callente was a fairly good horse, having won a few stakes in San Francisco and second money several times east. "Lucky" Baldwin hasn't been so lucky this season, however, and his winnings won't run very far up in the thousands. Los Angeles won a number of good races, and so did Honduras, but outside of the Maltese cross of the Santa Anita stable, was seldom to the front. Baldwin, however, must have some good youngsters for next season, as he made a large number of entries East and has angeged His Barriers.

Baldwin, however, must have some good youngsters for next season, as he has made a large number of entries East, and has engaged Pike Barnes, the celebrated eastern colored jockey, to ride for him at a salary of $5000 a year. Barnes's engagement begins from February next, when he will come to Los Angeles to live. Senstor Hearst has engaged little Monaghan for next season. The youngster is a good rider, and made a favorable impression when he was out here last season. The Haggins have secured Hamilton, the great colored jockey, to pilot their colors to victory next season, and "Casey" Winchell will again ride for Theodore Winters. By the way, great as El Rio Rey has proved himself Mr. Winters says he has a yearling brother who is vastly his superior, and he has named him "Rey del Rey," the king of kings. He must be a wonder, for El Rio Rey is the greatest 2-year-old of the world, and the best colt that ever went east from California.

"White Hat" Dan McCarthy has sold Sorrento for $6700. Sorrento won several good races this year, and ran second to Spokane in the Chicago Derby, a race he would have won had he been properly ridden.

California ought to winess some great racing this winter. There is now in California among the trotters Margaret S., Sunol, Lillian Wilkes, Regal Wilkes, Phallas, Stamboul and a dozen other lesser lights of the turf. Among the runners we ought to see races between Geraldine, Racine, Flambeau, Los Angeles, Peel, The Tycoon, Ed McGinnis and other good runners, that would furnish a lively and exciting contest. What is the matter with getting a few down this way? What has become of the Southern California Driving Association? It ought to take a hand in the fun.

Pugilism in Los Angeles has received a very black eye since the late McCoy-Cuffe flasco, and there is a great internecine quarrel going on among the different factions in the club. Unless these gentlemen heal the breaches, soon the Southern California Athletic Club will be a thing of the past.

What's the matter with base-ball in Los Angeles? A few years ago we supported the best team that over crossed the Rockies. There were in that team such men as Ebright, Stockwell, Quest, Graves and other great players. Los Angeles was a good ball fown in those days, but base-ball enthusiasm has vanished with the boom. I nope the new base-ball scheme will succeed, so that our national game will be played again in the city and Los Angeles carry off the pennant.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.-|By the Asso

ciated Press. | Commissioner of Indian Affairs Morgan, in his annual report, says that he entered upon the discharge of the duties of his position with some strongly cherished convictions, which he epitomizes as follows: The anomalous position hereas follows: The anomalous position heretofore occupied by the Indians cannot much longer be maintained. The logic of events demands an insertion of the Indian into our national life, not as an Indian, but as an American citizen. As soon as wise conservatism will warrant it, the relations of the Indians to the Government must rest solely upon the full recognition of his individuality. Each Indian is entitled to his proper share of the inherited wealth of his tribe, and to the protection of the courts in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. He is not entitled to be supported in idleness. Indians must conform to the white man's way; peaceably if they will, forcibly if they must.

They must adjust themselves to their environments and conform their mode of living substantially to our civilization. The paramount duty of the hour is to prepare the rising generation of Indians for the new order of things thus forced upon them.

been decreased by appropriation $24,016 to cover losses in the New York Sub-treasury, and decreased by the loss of $10,000 at San Francisco and as reported by the Assistant Treasurer there in 1886.

The Treasurer surgests that the present method of keeping the accounts, by which he is charged with funds that do not exist, should be changed, so that the books would at all times show the state of the treasury, without real or apparent discrepancies.

The changes that took place in the currency were: An increase of about $34,000.000 in the stock of silver contraction, of $41,000,000 in national bank circulation and a loss of $25,780,000 of gold. The report shows that in the period of four years the public ownership of silver was nearly doubled. While the volume of notes was diminished from $647,385,147 to $30,087,478 the increase of the circulation of silver certificates was about $50,000,000, laving kept pace with the rate for the two previous years. The new issue of small denominations appears to have fully supplied the needs of the country. During the year the national banks withdrew $65,340,900 of their bonds held by the Treasurer as security for circulating notes. Of public money the deposits amounted to $25,243,700. There remained at the close of the year $148,121,450, belonging to 3202 banks as security for circulation, and $45,222,000 belonging to 2700 banks as security for deposits.

The report shows that the minimum of bonds for the present capital of banks was only about $50,000,000 or $80,000,000 below the amount now on deposit. The amount of public money held by depositors of banks ran down from $58,715,511 to $47,259,714.

The semi-annual tax on circulation amounted to $1,410,351 for the year. The net deposits during the year amounted to $23,484,415, of which sum $29,593,580 was for reduction of circulation of active banks.

The question whether rational banks should be required to redeem unsigned notes stolen from them and put into circulation amounted to $4,10,351 for the year. The pion of the prov

"GIRLS, LET'S KISS HIM."

The Pretty Organist Bluffed the Wrong Man.
A pretty good story is told of an accomplished and popular lady organist of one of the churches in the city, and of how she was taken at her word much to her dismay. It is not always that lovely woman wishes to have her language literally construed as a basis for action, and in this instance it was one of those times. One of the male members of the choir, which is quite a large one, has been absent from the city for several months. He is a good-looking gentleman of winning ways, and is quite popular among the ladies of the choir.

Last Saturday night there was a Last Saturday night there was a choir rehearsal at the church preparatory to the services for next day, and the recently-returned member of the choir put in his appearance for the first time. He was greeted warmly by all the members, who congratulated him who his affective and expressed first time. He was greeted warmly by all the members, who congratulated him upon his safe return, and expressed themselves in a jolly way that was very gratifying to the gentleman. As they were all gathered about him, the organist, who, by the way, is a bewitching widow, was seized with an inspiration which she afterward regretted expressing. In high glee she clapped her hands and exclaimed kittenishly: "Girls, let's kiss him!" There was a moment's pause and the girls expected to see the prodigal son blush and then they would join in a laugh at his expense. But he wasn't that kind of a man. This audacious chap coincided with the proposition and made a determined movement toward the organist. She became terrified instantly and attempted to run, as the easiest way out of the scrape. But it was too late. The muscular young chorister caught her and in spite of her struggles imprinted a chaste salute upon her resisting lips. This was too much and the fair young lady beat a hasty retreat, and the other girls looked as if they thought a mouse was too much and the fair young lady beat a hasty retreat, and the other girls looked as if they thought a mouse was somewhere about and wanted to get up on chairs. The daring thief, however, gathered no more stolen kisses that night, and it is said that his victim swears she never, never will forgive him.

Streets and Their Name LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Permit me to suggest, now while the committee of the City Council is earning the thanks, in the present and coming ages, of all citizens—and visitors as well—by their citizens—and visitors as well—by their renaming the streets, based upon a system: (1) That Philadelphia street, as it is a continuation of Grand avenue, be so called. (2) That Montreal be called Hope street for the same reason.

Further, I would suggest to parties concerned, now while Temple street is being regraded is the time to cut Hope and Grand avenue through from Temple to Sand street, and vacate Bunker Hill avenue from Temple to Sand, trading the ground for right of way for Hope street and Grand avenue. Respectfully, SUNOL'S PERFORMANCE.

Turfmen Enthusiastic Over Her Phenomenal Speed.

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] Sportsmen could not refrain from commenting today, although Sunday, on the marvelous speed made by several horses yesterday on the Bay District track, arrangially that by Sunday and A 2010 Laborated tracks. especially that by Sunol, who at 2:10% beat the 3-year-old world's record. A number of castern turimen, who had been laclined to look with questioning eye at a few of the records alieged to have been made in this State by California horses, had come to the Pacific Coast largely to note in person the speed made by some of the horses that were on the track yesterday. Without exception, so far as can be learned, these turfmen are now satisfied that the records heretofore recorded are true records. They held their own watches on the track yesterday, and they state that the official time given corresponds exactly with their time.

W. H. Crawford of Chicago, who has wagered $2000 that Stamboul will go 2:12 before January 1st, says in speaking of the race: "I am now satisfied that Sunol can beat Axtell at any stage of the rame."

L. A. Davles, owner of Roy Wilkes, says: "Sunol will do better than 2:10% when she is called on to do it."

Ed Blitheres, driver for J. I. Case, says

"Sunoi will do better than 2:10½ when she is called on to do it."

Ed Bitheres, driver for J. I. Case, says that after noting his watch as the mare passed under the wire, he mentally exclaimed: "Wonderful," He thinks Sunoi would have made better than 2:10½ had she not left the wire so fast at the start. Senator Stanford, Sunoi's owner, was out of the city when the race was run. In answer to a telegraph from the driver, giving Sunoi's time, he telegraphed: "My congratulations."

'FRISCO'S BUDGET. A Chapter of Casualties and a Sui-

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10. - |By the Associated Press. | Late last Edward Tyrrill, a tanner, went to his room intoxicated. This afternoon he was room intoxicated. This afternoon he was found dead, having been asphyxiated by gas.

A man named M. Solari, who was found on the street on the 7th inst, and taken to the hospital, died today, without having regained consciousness. The cause of his insensibility is not known, but it was evidently the result of a fall or a blow.

By the sudden stoppage of a car on the Howard-street Cable line today, Patrick Hartegan, a passenger, was thrown into the street. Several ribs were broken. His recovery is doubtful.

Theodore Joissen, a boy employed in a grocery store on Pacific street, fatally shot himself this evening. Near his dead body was found a note asking his mother to forgive him. She says the cause of the act must be because she scolded him for not coming to dinner at the proper time.

A SITE SELECTED.

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The Asylum Commis-sioners have selected the McAbee tract, three and a half miles north of town, as the site for the asylum. The tract consists of 480 acres with 80 inches of water, and Gov. Waterman's gift of five inches of hot water. The price paid is $110,000. The site has been approved by the Governor, condi-tionally that the title is perfect and that the streets of the tract, which have been platted as a townsite, be closed.

Burglars Make a Haul. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—Burglars en-tered the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Zim-mer, at 620 Golden Gate avenue, this aftermer, a to 20 colden Gate avenue, this atter-noon and secured about $1300 in gold and currency. Mrs. Zimmer was upstairs asleep at the time of the burglary, and her hus-band was in the basement. The money had been paid Mrs. Zimmer only a few days ago, and was piaced in a trunk in one of the bedrooms of the house. There is no clew to the burglars.

A Teacher Takes Strychnine. Edwin Sweeney attempted to suicide this morning by taking 15 drachma of strychnine. The prompt arrival of doctors prolonged his lite. He is not expected to recover. He is a school-teacher, and to recover. He is a school-teacher, and came here from Hayes county, Tex. Prink was the cause.

Many Vessels in Port SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—Today was an unusually busy one on the water-front, there being no less than 33 arrivals registered at the Merchants' Exchange. The vessels were for the most part coasters. Berths for ships are becoming a scarce commodity, so many vessels having come in of late.

Residence Burned. RED BLUFF, Nov. 10.—Last night, about nidnight, the residence of Mrs. Newt Howeil, a short distance from town, was burned to ashes. The fire caught in a pantry, near the kitchen. The cause is unknown. The furniture was nearly all saved. The loss is about $7000; insured.

A Pastor Stricken Down.

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—Rev. John Doughty, pastor of New Jerusalem Church, was unable to fill his pulpit today on account of a stroke of paralysis on Friday. His condition is worse today. He is widely known over the coast.

He Writes Numerous Letters to His Family and Coolly Shoots Himnestic Troubles Supposed to Be the Cause-The Inest Yesterday Afternoon.

nopening the meeting Dr. Peebles referred to Nationalism in connection with Christianity, and to the attitude of this section, and for many years a ranchman at Clenega, put an end to his existence by shooting himself through the head.

Mr. Cox, who was 73 years of age, lived with his wife and children in a large two-story house at the corner of Logan avenue and Washington Street. His son-in-law, W. W. Wood, also lived with him.

He was last seen alive at 9 o'clock Saturday evening. He had apent the vening up to that time in company with his family, who left him writing at a center-table in the sikting-room, and the model of the his method to the heart preport of a pistol, but he paid monattenito to it, as the sound appeared to come from the street, and he thought it likely that some all nighters were amusing themselves by shooting as they often did, so he again went to sleep. Yesterday morning shortly before 8 o'clock he arose and went down stairs to the mail box, from many room to give the missive to him. Upon opening the door, after having received no reply to repeated knocking, he was surprised to find the bed empty and the covering undisturbed. He hen thought it likely that Mr. Cox and his wife had arisen and gone out, as they frequently did, and he started to the sitting room. When he arrived at that apartment he saw Mr. Cox's could have been the gone of the did and the started to the sitting room. When he arrived at that apartment he saw Mr. Cox's could have been the gone of the sitting room which was a large pool of blood, his father-in-law. He was lying on in back, his left arm partly under his body and his right hand clasped a 41-caliber double-action revolver. The blood was occing from a wond, and blood was borrified at seeing, stretched out on the floor, his left arm partly under his body and his right hand clasped a 41-caliber double-action revolver. The blood was occing from a wond and blood was spattered about a number of articles in the room. Mr. Wood immediately called Mrs. Cox, and then went of opposite corner.

Mr. Cox owned considerable property in this locality, and was said to be very wealthy. It is supposed that domestic and fluancial troubles led him to take his life, as at times he was very despondent.

and financial troubles led him to take his life, as at times he was very despondent.

Coroner Meredith was notified of the occurrence and held an inquest at the house yesterday afternoon.

Myron F. Tarble, who had been called on and went to the house immediately after the discovery of the body, was aworn and testified that he had known the deceased for the past three years. Continuing he said: "This morning about 8:30 o'clock Mr. Wood came to my house and said his father-in-law, Mr. Cox, had shot himself. I want over and found the deceased lying on his back, with his head supported by a robe, on the floor of the sitting room, by the side of a center table. He had a large wound through the head and in his right hand held a pistol, while his left arm was partly under the body. I called Messrs. Griffith and Condit, and together we searched the room. We found on the table, beside which the deceased had evidently been sitting, a number of letters, some of which had been sealed and addressed to the various members of his family. There was also a roll of bills of sale made out to Jessie Wood, W. E. Cox, W. A. Cox and W. W. Wood for some horses. Inside the roll we found an envelope, on which was written in pencil the words: "This is poorly got up. I hope no one will kick." There was no appearance of a struggle in the 100m.

The jury found that William B. Cox came to his death by a gunshot wound in the head, inflicted with a revolver in his own hand, and with suicidal intent.

The funeral will take place today at 2 o'clock p.m.

MORPHINE.

Coroner Meredith held an inquest at quest.

Coroner Meredith held an inquest at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, on the body of Emma L. Warn, who died on Saturday afternoon at the Orient lodging-house on Third street, from the effects of an overdose of morphine. Her husband, Frank Warn, a bartender employed at the Opera-house saloon, was the first witness. He testified that his wife had been an invalid for the past six years, and for the last four years she had been under the constant care of Dr. Williams, at Santa Barbara. She had been in the city for some months and during that time received medical attention. Mr. Warn said he went to work at his usual hour on Friday morning last and received a telephone message stating that his wife was worse. He immediately returned to the house and found her in bed, and he raised her up. She said, "I am blind; cannot see," and after that she did not speak, although she lingered until Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Bessle Swan was sworn, and testified that she had known the deceased since July last and had been taking care of her for three weeks. The witness said that Mr. Warn awakened her on Friday morning as he was on his way out to work, and that in a few moments she heard Mrs. Warn calling for her and asking for a physician. The witness ran to the room occupied by the deceased, which adjoined her own, and as she was about to enter it she heard a fall. She then opened the door and saw the deceased lying on the floor. She picked her up and laid her on the bed, when she discovered that the deceased was frothing at the mouth and her limbs were stiffening. She immediately telephoned for Mr. Warn, and he and Dr. Westlake came. Nothing could be done for the deceased, and she died on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Dr. H. W. Westlake testified that he was called about noon on Friday last o'clock.

Dr. H. W. Westlake testified that he Dr. H. W. Westlake testified that he was called about noon on Friday last to see the deceased, and found her lying on the bed unconscious from the effects of morphine poisoning. She was very delicate and very much emaciated, and never recovered consciousness sufficiently to converse with any one. The witness found a box containing morphine pills, which were prescribed by a physician to be taken as directed.

The jury rendered a verdict that the effects of morphine poisoning. She was 29 years and 8 months old and a native of Ohio.

NATIONALISM.

Dr. Peebles on Its Moral and Reli-There were several hundred attendants at the meeting of the Nationalist Club in Temperance Temple, yesterday afternoon. Several choice songs by Mrs. J. T. Coan were greatly appreciated.

In opening the meeting Dr. Peebles referred to Nationalism in connection with Christianity, and to the attitude with a tract, while at the other door the Nationalist enters with a loaf of bread.

"All great reforms, all great social changes, have been accomplished only when the moral, the religious sentiments of humanity were aroused, and became factors in the movement toward reform. The agnostic, the atheist, the free thinker may deny this statement, but I make this statement only after a careful examination and in the light of history. While I am sorry that a few Christian ministers seem to take a narrow-minded view of Nationalism, because we sake men to accept only the humanitarian doctrines of Christ, I rejoice to see many others who are willing to place Christ above creed—truth above dogma."

An address by Mr. Hathaway, of Santa Monica, and a song by Mrs. Coan, concluded the meeting.

EAST SIDE NEWS.

Looking for a Boy in a Well-Notes. A report came to the police station yesterday that a child had fallen into well in the Arroyo Seco' and was drowned. Capt. McKeag visited the spot designated, where a large crowd had congregated, and the parents were lamenting the loss of their little one. A man was sent down into the well. After fishing for a half hour they concluded there was no child in the well. Capt. McKeag requested the parents to examine the premises thoroughly, which they did, and found the little fellow enjoying a good nap under the bed.

CROOKEDNESS.

AN INTERESTING REPORT FOI THE COUNCIL

Have Gone Wrong—His Case to be Investigated Today — Why City Clerk Teed Discharged Him.

A Times reporter learned yesterday that there will be presented to the City Council this morning a report which involves crookedness in the City Clerk's office. The rumor was after-ward verified by a visit to the resi-dence of City Auditor Lopez on Boyle Heights. While Mr. Lopez refused absolutely to talk about the matter in advance of the meeting of the Council, he did not deny that the rumors were well founded, and that something would come up before the Council this morning. He said that no matter what there might be in the wind, it was manifestly improper for him to say anything in advance of his official report. Mr. Lopez allowed the statement, however, that there have been certain irregularities of which he has become cognizant and upon which there will be a report this morning. With this meager clew to work upon the reporter started out to ascertain something as to the individual involved, and the details of the affair. It was ascertained that the charges will be brought against James C. Voorbees, who has been a clerk in the office of the charges to be made cannot be stated, but it appertains to a falsification of the records in regard to the moneys which are received in the office of the City Clerk. The City Clerk does not handle a large amount of money, but there is a certain sum from fees and otherwise which passes through that office, and the defalcation is in that department. The amount of money lost by the city is said not to be very large, but the proof of a corrupt method of handling the funds is alleged to be very complete.

The awkward nature of the affair is easily realized when it is stated that Mr. Voorhees is City Clerk Freeman G. Teed's stepfather. He was put in the Clerk's office by Mr. Teed, and has been there about six months. The defalcations are said to extend over a period of two months past, and were found out about a week ago. It is alleged that the proof is so complete that Mr. Teed has already discharged Mr. Voorhees from the office. He feels, of course, very much broken up over the whole thing.

The report this morning, it is understood, will give all the particulars of the transactions upon which the charge is based.

It has been a number of years since the departments of the city governwell founded, and that something would come up before the Council this the transactions upon which the charge is based.

It has been a number of years since the departments of the city government have figured in any affair of this sort. The integrity of the officials has not been questioned, and in this matter Mr. Teed has had no knowledge of any such transactions as are alleged to have taken place.

Mr. Voorhees is quite an old man and, it is said, has habits of dissipation which may account for any irregion.

Mr. Voorhees is quite an old man and, it is said, has habits of dissipation which may account for any irregularities he may have committed. Should it prove true that he has manipulated the books of the City Clerk's office, it will show a degree of unsgratefulness and lack of probity which it will be hard for any office. EULOGY ON THE WORK AND PREACHING OF ST. PAUL

Thrilling Interest of Many Sight in Rome-The Scene of Greatness and Vileness of the Mightless and Meanest Intellect-Confirm ing One's Faith.

ROME, Nov. 10 .- | Special Report for the Los Angeles Times.] The Rev T. De Witt Talmage, D.D., Mrs. Talmage and Miss Talmage, with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Klopsch, arrived in this city last evening. Today the great Brooklyn divine preached large congregation from the text, Acts xix, 21: "I must also see Rome." A full report of the sermon follows:

Here is Paul's itinerary. He traveling or circuit preacher. He had been mobbed and insulted, and the more good he did the worse the world treated him. But he went right on Now he proposes to go to Jerusalem and says: "After that I must also see Why did he want to visit this wonderful city in which I am today permitted to stand? "To preach the pel," you answer. No doubt of it, but there were ether reasons why he wanted to see Rome. A man of Paul's intelligence and classic taste had fifty intelligence and classic taste had fifty other reasons for wanting to see it. Your Coliseum was at that time in process of erection, and he wanted to see it. The Forum was even then an old structure, and the eloquent apostle wanted to see that building, in which eloquence had so often thundered and wept. Over the Appian Way the triumphal procession had already marched for hundreds of years, and he wanted to see that. The temple of Saturn was already an antiquity, and he wanted to see that. The architecture of the world-renowned city, he wanted to see that. The places assowanted to see that. The places asso ciated with the triumphs, the cruelties the disasters, the wars, the crueities, the disasters, the wars, the military genius, the poetic and the rhetorical fame of this great city, so many sided, so sympathetic, so emotional, so full of analogy, could not have been indifferent to the antiquities and the splenders which moves our property. dors which move every rightly organized human being. And with what thrill of interest he walked these streets, those only, who for the first time like ourselves enter Rome, can imagine. If the inhabitants of all Christendom were gathered into one Christendom were gathered into one plain, and it were put to them which two cities they would above all others wish to see, the vast majority of them would vote Jerusalem and Rome. So we can inderstand something of the record of my text and its surroundings we can industrate sometimes of the record of my text and its surroundings when it says Paul purposed in the spirit when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia to go to Jerusalem, saying: "After that I must also see Rome." As some of you are aware, with my family, and only for the purpose of what we can learn and the good we can get, I am on the way to Palestine. Since leaving Brooklyn, N. Y., this is the first place we have stopped. Intermediate cities are attractive, but we have visited them in other years, and we hasten on, for I said before starting that while I was going to Jerusalem 1 must also see Rome. Why do I want to see it? Because I want, by visiting regions associated with the great Apostle to the Gentiles, to have my faith in Christianity confirmed. There are those who will go through a large expenditure to have their faith weakened. In my native land I have known persons of very lighted means to near the content of the property in the property of the propert tive land I have known persons of very limited means to pay 50 cents or $1 to hear a lecturer prove that our Christian religion is a myth, a dream, a cheat, a lie. On the contrary, I will give all the thousands of dollars that this journey of my family will get this journey of my family will cost to this journey of my family will cost to have additional evidence that our Christian religion is an authenticated grandeur, a solemn, a joyous, a rapturous, a stupendous, a magnificent fact. So I want to see Rome. I want you to show me the places connected with apostolic ministry. I have heard that in your city and amid its surrounding, appeting authers and read and its surrounding. roundings, aposties suffered and died for Christ's sake. My common sense tells me that people do not die for the sake of a falsehood. They may prac-tice a deception for purposes of gain, but put the sword to their heart, or ar-range the halter around their people. range the halter around their neck, or kindle the fire around their feet, and they would say my life is worth more than anything I can sain by losing it. I hear you have in this city Paul's dungeon. Show it ome. I must see Rome also. While I am interested in this city because of her minterested in this city because of her rulers or her citizens who are mighty in history for virtue or vice or talents—Romulus, and Caligula, and Cincinnatus, and Vespasian, and Coriolanus, and Brutus, and a hundred others whose names are bright, with an according brite history.

There are ten thousand things I want explained—about you, about myself, about the government of the world, about God, about everything. We start in a plain path of what we know, and in a minute come up against a high wall of what we do not know. I wonder how it looks over there. Some-body tells me it is like a paved city—paved with gold; and another man itells me it is like a fountain, and it is like a triumphal procession; and the next man I meet tells me it is all figurative. I really want to know after the body is resurrected what they wear and what they eat; and I have an immeasurable curiosity to know what it is, and how it is, and waves it is. Columbus risked his life to find the American continent, and shall we shudder to go out on a voyage of discovery which shall reveal a vaster and more brilliant country? John Frankiin risked his life to find a passage between joebergs, and shall pussage between joebergs, and shall passage between icobergs, and shall we dread to find a passage to eternal summer? Men in Sw.tzer-land travel up the heights of the Matland travel up the heights of the Matterhorn with an alpenstock, and guides, and rockets, and ropes, and. getting half way up, stumble and fall down in a horrible massacre. They just wanted to say that they had been on the tops of those high peaks. And shall we fear to go out for the ascent of the eternal hills which start a thousand miles beyond where stop the highest peaks of the Alps, and when in that ascent there is no peril? A man doomed to die stepped on the scaffold and said in joy: "Now, in 10 minutes I will know the great secret." One minute after the vital functions ceased, the little child that died last night knew more than Paul himself as and miles beyond where stop the bighest peaks of the Alps, and when in that ascent there is no peril? A man doomed to die stepped on the scarfold and said in joy: "Now, in 10 minutes I will know the great secret."

One minute after the vital functions ceased, the little child that died last night knew more than Paul himself before he died. Friends, the exit from this world, or death, if you please to call it, to the Christian is glorious explanation. It is demonstration. It is illumination. It is sunburst. It is the opening of all the windows. It is shutting up the catechism of doubt, and the unrolling of all the scrolls of positive and accurate information. In stead of standing at the top of the ladder and looking up, it is standing at the top of the ladder and looking at the top of the ladder and looking up, it is standing at the top of the ladder and looking and the ladder and looking up, will it nat he over of God and the wisdom of God unto salvation.

CHRISTIAN ANTIQUITES OF ROME.
Our desire to visit this city is also intensified by the fact that we want to be confirmed in the feeling that human life is brief, but its work lasts for centuries, indeed, forever. Therefore show us the antiquities of old Rome, about which we have been reading for a lifetime, but never seen.
In our beloved Amerca we have in America some cathedrals hundreds and thousands of years old, but they are in Yellowstone Park or Californian cañon, and their architecture and masonry were by the omnipotent God.
We want to see the buildings, or runs of old buildings that were erected hundreds and thousands of years ago by human hands. They lived 40 or 70 years, but the arches they litted, the paintings they penciled, the sculpture they chiseled, the roads they laid out, I understand are yet to be seen, and we want you to show them to us.
If must also see Rome.

mountains, the Bible tells us, God was born, aye, was never born at all, be-cause he always existed. Psalm xc, 2: "Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God." How short is human life, art God." How short is human me, what antiquity attaches to its worth! How everlasting is God! Show us the antiquities, the things that were old when America was discovered, old when America was discovered, old when Paul went up and down these streets sight-seeing, old when Christ was born. I must, I must also see Rome! THE PAULINE INTELLECT.

city is that we want to see the places where the mightiest intellects and the citizens who are mighty in history for virtue or vice or talents—Romalus, and Caligula, and Cincinnatus, and Brutas, and a hundred others whose names are bright with an exceeding bright-ness, or black with the deepest dyemost of all am I interested in this city because the preacher of Mars Hill and the defler of Agrippa, and the hero of the shipwrecked vessel in the breakers of Molita, and the man who held higher than any one that the worled ever saw the torch of Resurrection, lived, and preached, and was massacred here, show me every place connected with his memory. I must also see Rome.

CURROSITY OF THE CHRISTIAN.

But my text suggests that in Paul there was the inquisitive and curious spirit. Had my text only meant that he wanted to preach here he would have said so. Indeed, in another place, he declared: "I am ready to preach the gospel to you who are at Rome also."

But my text suggests a sight seeing. This man, who had been under Dr. Gamaliel had no lack of phraseology, and was used to saying exactly what he meant, and he said: "I must also see Rome." There is such a thing as Christian curiosity. Paul had it, and some of us have it. About other people's business I have no curiosity. About all that can confirm my faith in the Christian religion and the world's salvation and the soul's future happiness, I am full of an all-absorbing, all-compelling curiosity. Paul had it, and so have we. I hope some day, by the grace of God, to go over and see for myself; but not now. No well man, no prospered man, I think, wants to go now. But the time will come, I think, when I shall go over. I want to see what they do there, and I want to see how they do it. I do not want to be looking through the gates ajar forever. I want to see what they do there, and I want to see how they do, it. I do not want to be looking through the gates ajar forever. I want to see what they do there, and I want to see how they do it. I do not want to be looking through the gates ajar forever. I want to see what they do there, and I want to see greatest natures wrought for our

Hastings in Westminster Hail, that compared with the scene in the court room, when, before roose officials, Paul bowed and began his speech, saying:
"I think myself happy, King Agripps, because f shall answer for myself this day." I repeat, that a rel g on that can capture a man like that must have some power in it. It is time our wise-acres stopped talking as though all the brain of the world were opposed to Christianity. Where Paul leads, we can afford to follow. I am glad to know that Christ has, in the different ages of the world, had in his discipleship a Mozart and a Handel in music, a Raphuel and a Reynolds in painting; an Angelo and a Canovo in sculpture; a Rush and a Harvey in medicine; a Grotius and a Washington in statesmanship: a Blackstone, a Marishall and a Kent in the law. And the time will come when the religion of Christ will conquer all the observa-

such a man, but that it is an all-conquering gospel. Aye! for all ages the quering down, and geology, and astronomy, and theology. Oh, will it not be grand to have all questions answered? The perpetually recurring interrogation point changed for the mark of exclamation. All riddles solved. Who will fear to go out on that discovery, when all the questions are to be decided which we have been discussing all our lives? Who shall not clap his hands in the anticipation of that blessed country, if it be no better than through holy curiosity? As this Paul of my text did not suppress his curiosity, we need not suppress ours. Yes, I have an unlimited curiosity about all religious things, and, as this city of Rome was so intimately connected with apostolic times, the incidents of which emphasize, and explain, and augment the Christian religion, you will not take it as an evidence of a prying spirit, but as the outbursting of a Christian curiosity, when I say, I must also see Rome.

CHRISTIAN ANTIQUITES OF ROME.

Such a man, but that it is an all-conquering gospel. Aye! for all ages the quering gospel to you that are at Rome also. The churches of America salute you. Upon you who are like us strangers in Rome, I pray the gospel to you that are at Rome also. The churches of America salute you. Upon you who are resident here, I pray the gospel to you tha to our own kindred whose departure broke our hearts on earth, we shall, I

IT is fair to say that the actual agri cultural possibilities of this country are not yet tested. In this city there has recently been grown as fine cotton as can be found anywhere. It was raised as an experiment, and if a little can be produced, certainly a large amount can be placed on the market. Southern California as a cotton-raising country, as a sugar-producing district through the beet, sounds well, and there are those who seem positive that the time is coming when these two productions will be raised here in paying quantities.

THE suggestion of ex-President M. M. Parker, made to the Council regarding storm water, is a most important one; much property was injured in this way during the late down-pour. Attention has been called

THE RELIGIOUS BODIES REP-RESENTED IN PASADENA.

Rev. Mr. Conger's Interesting Ser mon at the Universalist Church -"What the Earth Teaches"-A Powerful Discourse-Other Ser-

Pasadena can justly lay claim to the title of the city of churches. In the percentage of church attendance, the number of church societies and the number, value and excellence of church edifices, few cities in the United States can compete with the Crown of the Valand certain curiosities in the way of ley. Readers of THE TIMES will re member the recently published article regarding these church buildings. Following is a list of the church so-Following is a list of the church societies holding services in this city, very many of them in buildings of their own: Free Methodist, All Saints' (Episcopal), Universalist, African M. E., North Congregational, United Presbyterian, First Congregational, Friends', First Presbyterian, First Bautist, German Baptist, German Methodist, Christian, Catholic, Calvary Presbyterian, First Holiness, First Methodist, M. E. Church South, Olivewood M. E., North Pasadena M. E. Yesterday was no exception to the rule of a large attendance and interesting services at the churches. An account of several of these services was secured by representatives of The Times.

portant one; much property was injured in this way during the late down-pour. Attention has been called to an instance on a street on the ridge; the water making a run from Belfontaine down, carrying sand over the property of two ladies on Palmetto and almost ruining it. The street here has no gutter, except where property-owners have put it in at their own expense, and so the orange groves are at the mercy of the flood.

It is a source of congratulation, or should be, for the taxpayers of this city to read in the full report of the Council, which we gave in yesterdiy's issue, that the City Marshal states that in October there were but two arrests and two cases tried. We venture to say that few if any cities in the United States, with a population of 10,000, which we probably have during as this. It is a strong card for the community, telling, as it does, of a pure, socal atmosphere and an almostical lack of the criminal element.

Southern Californial steps and every overland train that comes in has given a lift to a score or more of these unfortunates, many of whom are professional thieves and men of the lowest kind. They represent the last stage of the philosophythat teaches that the world owes every man a living. There are few attractions for this class in Pasadena; yet they sleep in the barns, light their pipes, and are a measace to the community. The roads and empty lots of Pasadena need improving, and if sufficient tramps could be corraled they might be put to work with good results.

thought. He has drawn iron from the mountain and girdled the earth with mighty chariots drawn by iron steeds. He has built floating palaces that sail the mighty deep, and bring nations together as brethers. He transforms wood, straw, rags into paper, and on it records the life, poetry, philosophy, art and science of the world. He becomes a magician and transforms matter into mind, Nature into life. He smites the rock and with the gushing waters, he makes this desert blossom as the rose. If his vision is too short, he makes an eye with which he sweeps the heavens and vision is too short, he makes an eye with which he sweeps the heavens and brings down unseen worlds. If his eye is not keen enough, he makes one that magnifies hidden things and discovers new worlds of law and life. If that magnifies hidden things and discovers new worlds of law and life. If his voice is not loud enough, he makes the lightning carry it on a slender wire, hundreds of miles, and speak it into the ear of a friend. More than this, man has related the earth to other worlds, and discovered that one wise and blessed purpose through all creation runs, and so finds at last God, the infinite mind, that planned and purposed all and is the living force in all his works.

First—So has the earth been man's teacher. At first he did not know how ignorant he was. It took him sometime to learn that he was naked, then he went into the clothing business. He had to make a language, but his success has been marvelous. He had little brain power and little room for brains, but he has developed both. From the rudest and simplest man he has developed many gifts, and crowded out his cranium, until his head almost contains the universe and his soul throbs with the love of God.

Second—What a wonderful teacher has earth been to man. He thought her his enemy, but found her his best friend.

He said the ground was cursed for his sake, but he has learned that though she demands the price of honest toil for her treasures, yet is she full of them.

Once he said this labor which earth once he said this innor which earth charges as the price of her blessings was a curse, a penalty for disobedience. But she has taught him that it is the only royal road to life and growth and happiness.

Once man thought all Nature was evil and at war with God. The lightning was Jove hurling thunderbolts at man and God was in his anger striking down some sinner, but he has learned that the earth is a kind mother, gentle, indulgent and ever subservient to his wants, spreading his walks with flowers and his table with plenty.

In his ignorance, he said hell was in the center of the earth and thence devils came forth to torment men with disease and all suffering. But he has learned that the earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof. It is good to the corn. There isn't half as much be limited to the core. There isn't half as much be sure results of the transgression of the sure results of the transgression of matural laws—laws established and directed, not by the devil, but by Institute mind, one order of law on the earth that there can be but one infinite mind, one order of law on the earth; that all strife is the friction of growth. It is the struggle that makes strong. It is the moral upheaval that leaves man wiser and better than bedore.

The Reading the great book of Nature, he learned that a devil is not needed to account for storms, and postilence, and disaster. They come in the natural order of sequence.

he learned that a devil is not needed to account for storms, and pestilence, and disaster. They come in the natural order of sequence.

The scholar, the scientist, the philosopher, the reverent religionist, say the earth has no room for a personal devil. The law of cause and effect holds this world, and the lawmaker holds the law in his hands, and God is the lawmaker, and he has not abdicated. He laid the foundations of the earth, and "it is full of the goodness of God." There is no room for a devil, and no need of one. Man is sufficient to account for the evil. His disobedience bears the mark of his own moral freedom, and the retribution laws that pursue him and subdue him show that the eternal holds him responsible. The moral law has its grip on the sinner, and it never lets him go. If the devil is the author of man's wickedness, then the eternal law is after the wrong man, and is itself wrong.

is the author of man's wickedness, then the eternal law is after the wrong man, and is itself wrong.

And here man finds another lesson from earth. It teaches him obedience. The earth cries out to all men, keep to your orbit. "Order is heaven's first law." Do not disturb the world by your wayward course. When we wrong others we break the moral order. If we do not care enough for ourselves to do right, we ought not to inflict our wrong and wretchedness on others. "Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you," says the earth, speaking the language of another of God's teachers sent to man. So she speaks a various language of she toaches economy—there is no waste in Nature. She tella him to be useful, good and true; to live worthly and well in this earthly home, that he may be ready for the heavenly home which the Good Father has prepared for them that love Him.

Nearly 1000 people attended the morning service at this church. The pastor, Rev. William Ormiston, D.D., before announcing his text, read from a recent address, prepared by authority of the church, several facts concerning the progress of the Presbyterian Church during the past year. The membership of this church in the United States has been increased by the reception of 91,510 new members during the past year. The church raises yearly about $13,000,000. During the past year $885,000 was contributed for home missions, and $709,000 for foreign missions.

Taking as his theme "Look and Live," Dr. Ormiston preached from the following text:

"And the Lord said unto Moses, make thee a fiery serpent, and set it upon a pole; and it shall come to pass, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it shall live. And Moses made a serpent of brass, and put it upon a pole; and it came to pass that if a serpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the serpent of brass he lived."—Numbers, xxi., $9:

The grand object of the scriptures was, he maintained, to set forth the mission and work of Jesus Christ as the Savior of mankind. This was, he maintained, to set forth the mission and work of Jesus Christ as the Savior of mankind. This is in many places and in various ways symbolically represented in the Old Testament. The incident under con-Testament. The incident under consideration was one of these—not that the fiery serpent represented Christ, but there is an analogy between the scourge of fiery serpents and the remedy provided, and the scourge of sin and the provision for salvation.

The speaker then narrated the story of Israel's sin and the scourge of fier serpents sent among them. Then God serpents sent among them. Then God provided a remedy for the afflicted ones. So mankind is now affected by a scourge—sinfulness. Sin has been referred to as bad blood in the veins of the soul.

The origin and provisions of the plan of salvation were the subject of the remainder of the sermon. Jesus came to earth, lived and died for us. We have but to look and live. Look to him, turn from your sin, have faith and you shall be healed from all your transgressions.

The sermon was one of great earnestness and marked ability.

THE 11TH OF NOVEMBER

Gen. William Wilkinson, in November, 1813, descended the St. Lawrence in a flotilla toward Montreal. When opposite Prescott he learned that the river was lined with musketry. In a council of war it was determined to attack the enemy at once, and Gen. Brown was sent over with his brigade Brown was sent over with his brigade and some dragoons. The British under Morrison, 1000 strong, had come down in a schooner, gunboats and bateaux, and these were joined by provincial troops. Gen. Boyd was detached to assist Brown. The British vessels also closed in upon the flotilia, which they attacked, but Wilkinson used his artillery from the shore so effectively that they fled up the river. Meanwhile Brown captured the British post at the foot of the rapids, and Boyd was about to begin his march on the morning of November 11th, when he was suddenly attacked by the enemy. Gen. Swartout was directed to attack the British vanguard, and Covington to take a position within supporting distance. The British were driven back a mile to Chuyslen's Field, a position covered by the gunboats. distance. The British were driven back a mile to Chrysler's Field, a position covered by the gunboats. Covington them attacked the enemy's left and the battle became general. Repeated charges drove the enemy a mile and a half, the American artillery being used with great effect. Unfortunately at this point the ammunition gave out, and the troops fell back, at which the British endeavored to capture the cannon. A charge led by Covington prevented this, the struggle continuing for five hours. The American retreat was becoming almost a rout when 600 regulars under Col. Upham appeared and put a stop to further progress of the British. The American loss was 339 and that of the British 187. This check caused Wilkinson to abandon the expedition.

November 11th is St. Martin's DAY. This saint was born in Hungary about 316, and after several years' service as a soldier, retired into solitude, from which he was withdrawn by being elected Bishop of Tours in 374. The principal legend represents St. Martin dividing his cloak with a naked beggar at the gate of Amiens. This cloak long formed one of the holiest relies of France, and in time of war was carried before the French monarch as a sacred banner, never failing to assure certain victory. The oratory in which this cloak or cape (in French, chape) was preserved, acquired in consequence the name of chapelle, the person intrusted with its care being termed chapelain, and thus, apparently, our English words chapel the person intrusted with its care being termed chapelain, and thus, apparently, our English words chapel and chaplain are derived. The canons of St. Martin and St. Gratian had a lawsuit for 60 years about a sleeve of this cloak, each claiming it as their property. The proceedings were suddenly terminated by Count La Rocheproperty. The proceedings were suddenly terminated by Count La Rochefoucalt profanely committing the contested relict othe flames. According to the legend, once when St. Martin was on his way to Rome on foot, Satan meeting him, taunted the holy man for traveling in a way so unbecoming a bishop. In an instant, Satan changed the old serpent into a mule, and, jumping on its back, trotted comfortably along. Whenever the transformed demon slackened pace, St. Martin, by making the sign of the cross, urged it to full speed. At last, Satan, utterly defeated, exclaimed: "Cross, cross thyself thou plaguest and vexest me without necessity; for, owing to my exertions, thou wilt soon reach Rome, the object of thy wishes."

November 11, 1630, is known in history as the "Day of Dupes," as it marks the triumph of Cardinal Richellelleu over his enemies, who imagined that they had finally succeeded in overturning his power. The fickleminded Louis XIII. had been persuaded to dismiss Richelieu and appoint Marshal de Marillac as Prime Minister. As a last resort, the wily priest proceeded to Versailles and had an interview with the King, the result of which was that the King fell under

The "SARAH SANDS," a British iron steamer, conveying a greater part of the Fifty-fourth Regiment to India, took fire at 3 in the afternoon of November 11, 1857. Capt. Castle commanding the ship, and Col. Moffatt of the regiment, at once prepared to maintain discipline. The fire engine poured torrents of water upon the flames below, but all to no purpose. The Colonel ordered the men to throw overboard all the ammunition in the starboard magazine. The port magastarboard magazine. The port magazine was so surrounded with heat and smoke that he called for volunteers for the dangerous service, upon which, a number of brave fellows at once rushed to the magazine and cleared out all of its contents except a barrel or two of powder. Overcome with heat and smoke, several of the men fell by the way and were hauled up senseless. The wind blew a gale and the flames burst up through the deck and cabins. For hours the men were employed in dashing water against it to keep it cool, and by 2 o'clock the next morning the flames were under control. The ship was nearly swamped by the waves, but by the use of the pumps the vessel was saved, and the burned and battered wreck reached Mauritius in eight days. This heroic achievement is almost unparalleled in the annals of navigation, as every person on board was saved.
